> Shalom , dear Ehud! Thank you for the New Year congratulations and wishes. We also would like to wish you a peaceful and productive 2016, may it bring happiness and joy to You, Nili and your family!
> Concerning Aliya communication. Seems she follows some proforma on an ideal relationship between the Bank and an imaginary business consultant. Life is not ideal and I can't believe anyone is able to honestly fill out answers to her detailed questioner. She should be satisfied with the response you have already provided. Just silly bureaucratic games. Don't allow it to spoil the New Year celebration. Cheers, best to Nili from Alma.

>>> Dear Madame,
>>> Last week we had a chance to discuss this request with Ms. Aliya Tynynbayeva. Thus these positions appear in the contract of Mr. Barak, she said, they should be somehow reflected in the report. In our view most of the contents below could be incorporated copy-paste to the initial version of the report. We are not in disposal of any specific information related to the bullet points below, so that we could only summarize the activities related to the working sessions of the Council and the advisory works in between, which we were personally involved in. In our initial draft we therefor put on paper, what was known to us in a form acceptable and suitable for the Kazakh side for their financial reporting. If you need our support extending the report, we would require some more information concerning the content. Please note that there is no need to describe the activities in details and to disclose any specific details of advisory services, which are sensitive and confidential. For this type of reporting the Kazakh side requires just an explanation in general terms covering the obligations of the advisor according to his agreement in order to document the services as rendered and accordingly the payments as justified.

Please kindly let us know if any further advice or support from our side is needed.

Kind regards,

Anna Zeitlinger
